Valued Testa Produce Customers:

There were several Produce recalls and alerts over the weekend. Testa was not affected by these recalls and alerts. Here is the information for informational purposes only:

1 - Cantaloupe, Watermelon, and Honeydew from Southern Indiana: the Department for Public Health reported some melons were contaminated with and associated with a Salmonella Outbreak that began in Kentucky. This was originally linked to cantaloupe, and the investigation is expanding to watermelon and honeydew from the same region - no other growing region is affected.

2 - Sliced White Mushrooms from Highline Mushrooms (Leamington, ON): Voluntarily recalling their Sliced White Mushrooms sold in 8oz containers for possible Listeria contamination. The containers are bearing lot code L410805 followed by a 4-digit time code and a Best Before date of 12AU15. These were mainly for sale in Michigan.

3 - Romaine, Single Wrapped from Tanimura and Antle (Salinas, CA): Voluntarily recalling Fresh Wrapped Single Head Romaine (available at retail stores) due to possible E. coli contamination. The recall is limited to a single lot of product with the UPC number 0-27918-20317-9 and may have a 'best by' date of August 19. The product was originally packed in a case of 12 or 18 heads per case.

Again, Testa does not carry any of the affected product.
