Produce Quiz

Last Quiz Answer:
CREMINI MUSHROOM

I am a native to the Alps, but along with my 50 relatives have been grown throughout Europe and in the USA as well. We are all sweet members of the parsley family. I am totally consumable. From roots to seeds and stems to leaves there is always a use for me. I have both medicinal and culinary properties. Before dinner, I am used to flavor the Vermouth in your perfect martini. During dinner my young shoots will be blanched and added to your salad, or perhaps the bread you are eating is made with dough from my ground roots. In Greenland, my foliage is eaten as a vegetable. For dessert, you'll find my crystallized stems on the cake or used as a sweetener in stewed rhubarb or custards. After dinner, it's my seeds that flavor your apéritif if you are drinking Chartreuse or Benedictine. Medicinally I am used as an anti-inflammatory and I out sell Alka-Seltzer in China. Though my name may imply it, I still haven't earned my wings.
